QUESTION 1

SINGLE CHOICE

Under Arizona Registrar of Contractors rules, an R-22 license classification authorizes a licensee to perform which type of work?

- ☐ A General residential building construction of new homes
- ☒ B Raising, supporting, transporting, and lowering existing buildings or structures
- ☐ C Installation of residential HVAC systems
- ☐ D Commercial electrical contracting

ANSWER B

WHY The R-22 (House Moving) classification specifically covers the raising, supporting, transporting, and lowering of existing buildings or structures. It is not a general building or mechanical/electrical license.

QUESTION 2

SINGLE CHOICE

Which state agency administers the R-22 House Moving license classification in Arizona?

- ☐ A Arizona Department of Transportation
- ☒ B Arizona Registrar of Contractors
- ☐ C Arizona State Board of Technical Registration
- ☐ D Arizona Corporation Commission

ANSWER B

WHY The Arizona Registrar of Contractors (ROC) is the state agency that administers contractor licensing, including the R-22 House Moving classification. Other agencies handle transportation, professional registration, and corporate filings.

QUESTION 3

SINGLE CHOICE

When an R-22 licensee moves a structure across public rights-of-way in Arizona, the move is typically coordinated with which entity for permits and routing?

- ☐ A Local homeowners' association
- ☒ B Arizona Department of Transportation and/or the appropriate local jurisdiction
- ☐ C Federal Highway Administration only
- ☐ D The structure's title insurer

ANSWER B

WHY Moves across public rights-of-way require permits and approved routing, typically issued by ADOT for state highways or by the local jurisdiction (city/county) for their roads. HOA approvals and federal/funding involvement are not the permitting authority, and title insurance does not issue transport permits.

QUESTION 4

SINGLE CHOICE

A contractor is moving a single-story residential structure approximately 25 miles within Arizona. Which of the following is the contractor's primary pre-move responsibility at the structure itself?

- ☐ A Replacing all electrical service panels
- ☒ B Properly raising and supporting the structure so it can be safely transported on the moving equipment
- ☐ C Re-zoning the destination parcel
- ☐ D Re-keying all locks before delivery

ANSWER B

WHY The R-22 scope centers on raising, supporting, transporting, and lowering existing structures. Properly raising and supporting the building onto the dollies/beams is the foundational step that makes a safe move possible. The other items are either outside the R-22 scope (re-zoning, re-keying) or unnecessary for the move itself (replacing panels).

QUESTION 5

SINGLE CHOICE

Which of the following is a legitimate reason the Arizona Registrar of Contractors may take disciplinary action against an R-22 licensee?

- ☐ A Working only in one county
- ☒ B Abandonment of a contracted house moving project without legal excuse
- ☐ C Using subcontractors for trucking
- ☐ D Charging by the mile for the move

ANSWER B

WHY Abandonment of a contract is a recognized ground for ROC disciplinary action under Arizona contractor statutes and rules. Working in one county, using subcontractors for legitimate tasks, and per-mile billing practices are not, by themselves, grounds for discipline.

QUESTION 6

SINGLE CHOICE

Before the Registrar of Contractors will activate a new R-22 license, the applicant must typically provide proof of which of the following?

- ☐ A A federal highway hauling authority number
- ☒ B A surety bond and required financial/license documentation as set by the ROC
- ☐ C A bachelor's degree in civil engineering
- ☐ D Membership in the Arizona Moving Association

ANSWER B

WHY Arizona contractor licensing requires the ROC's standard licensing package, which includes a surety bond in the required amount and the applicable financial/license documentation before a license is activated. Federal highway authority numbers, engineering degrees, and private association memberships are not ROC activation requirements.

QUESTION 7

SINGLE CHOICE

An R-22 licensee is asked to also pour a new foundation at the destination site. Under typical Arizona scope-of-work principles, which statement is most accurate?

- ☐ A The R-22 license automatically covers any concrete foundation work at the destination
- ☒ B Pouring a new foundation is outside the R-22 scope and requires an appropriately classified license (for example, a concrete or residential general classification)
- ☐ C An R-22 licensee may pour foundations only if the structure is over 5,000 square feet
- ☐ D An R-22 licensee may pour foundations only on Saturdays

ANSWER B

WHY R-22 covers the move itself. Constructing a new foundation is building/contracting work outside R-22 and would generally require a license classified for that work (such as a residential or concrete classification), unless the licensee also holds that classification. Size of structure and day of week are not scope determinants.

QUESTION 8

SINGLE CHOICE

During a house move, a gas service line is discovered to be improperly reconnected at the destination. Which Arizona licensing principle applies?

- ☐ A Any R-22 licensee may reconnect gas lines because they moved the building
- ☒ B Gas line work must be performed by, or under the supervision of, a licensee holding the appropriate classification for that work
- ☐ C The homeowner may reconnect gas lines without any licensed contractor
- ☐ D Only a plumber with no ROC license is required for gas reconnection

ANSWER B

WHY Reconnecting gas lines falls under the scope of work for licensees holding the appropriate classification (commonly a plumbing/gas classification or residential general, as applicable). An R-22 licensee moving the structure is not, by virtue of that license, authorized to perform regulated gas work; homeowners also cannot do this work themselves in Arizona, and a non-ROC licensed plumber does not satisfy ROC requirements.

QUESTION 9

MULTIPLE CHOICE

Which of the following activities are generally considered part of the R-22 House Moving scope of work? (Choose two.)

- ☐ A Raising the structure off its original foundation using jacks and beams
- ☒ B Transporting the structure over the road on dollies and a transport vehicle
- ☐ C Performing the original site grading at the new location
- ☒ D Lowering and setting the structure onto its new foundation

ANSWER B - D

WHY R-22 covers raising, supporting, transporting, and lowering existing structures. Raising the building off its foundation (A) and lowering/setting it at the new location (D) are core R-22 activities. Site grading at the destination is site-preparation work outside the R-22 scope.
